SCHEDULING MANAGEMENT

MSA utilizes a state-of-the-art technology program to facilitate the administering of field deployments. The software program, EPay, delivers schedules directly to operatives and notifies them of any changes in real time. Operatives utilize the software's mobile app to clock-in once arriving to their post, confirming location and attendance. The platform also maintains site-specific post orders, accessible to field employees at all times. All deployment activity is managed by MSA's full-time scheduling department, staffed around-the-clock. Throughout our 30 years in business, MSA has continually implemented techniques and technologies to streamline all scheduling operations, guaranteeing coverage and accountability.

MSA's Executive Protection Operatives work closely with each client to understand the requirements and objectives of the security detail, designing customized plans to best address those needs. Operatives understand the importance of confidentiality, integrity and sensitivity. They communicate effectively with the principal while respecting boundaries and maintaining a professional demeanor and polished appearance at all times.

Many clients frequently choose to have low-profile protection details. MSA customizes these security details to facilitate unobtrusive protection of the principal. For one such client, the operative was introduced to other parties as an executive level assistant. In other scenarios, the client elected to have operatives shadow him from an inconspicuous distance. In every instance, MSA's goal is to protect the principal while ensuring his or her comfort.

Executive Protection Operatives may be deployed overtly as a visual deterrent, or covertly, blending seamlessly into their environment. They can be armed or unarmed, according to client requests. Operatives are commonly deployed to protect:

- High-Profile Corporate Executives
- High-Value Retail Companies

- Celebrities
- Human Resource Departments

Operatives ensure the safety and security of the principal. To that end, they are frequently charged with the following responsibilities:

- Accompany the principal in transport, at work and at various public functions
- Drive the principal to pre-determined sites
- Identify and de-escalate potential or overt acts of violence
- Protect life and property in emergencies and facilitate rescue operations when necessary
- Respond to medical emergencies

Operatives are supported by MSA's Intelligence team. The Intel team conducts daily open source research and sends out alerts on the global threat environment. Operatives in the field are updated on a near-real-time basis about events that may impact their clients' security operations.
